PROTECTION OF MOVABLE CULTURAL HERITAGE ACT 1986

APPLICATION FOR A PERMIT TO EXPORT CULTURAL HERITAGE OBJECTS FROM AUSTRALIA

Important Notes for Applicants

- All information provided in this application form is confidential.
- The provision of information that is complete and accurate will assist us to process your application as expeditiously as possible.
- Before completing this application form, you are strongly encouraged to familiarize yourself with the purpose and operation of Australia's Protection of Movable Cultural Heritage (PMCH) legislation. You can obtain information on the internet at www.arts.gov.au/topics/movable-cultural-heritage which describes how the export process works. Application forms, the Protection of Movable Cultural Heritage Act 1986 and the National Cultural Heritage Control List are accessible through this site. If you do not have Internet access, information can be obtained from the Office for the Arts.
- If you wish to export an identified collection of objects, you only need to fill in one form. You must then list the contents of the collection on a sheet to be attached to this form. It is possible that the Minister may grant an export permit for only some of these objects and refuse a permit for others.
- The Commonwealth's Criminal Code Act 1995 applies to this application. There are severe penalties under for knowingly making false or misleading statements in the application.

Supporting documentation:

- You must provide clear photographs of the object(s). The object must be clearly visible and identifiable in the photograph(s) as being the object(s) for which you are applying for a permit.
- Where the object is of a type that has a serial, chassis or engine number, photos of these numbers must be included as well as photos of the object. (If the number is not accessible an alternative method of identification such as a pencil rubbing of the compliance plate is acceptable.)
- Digital images are acceptable and can be emailed to the address below.
- A clear photocopy of a photograph of the object(s) published in a book or catalogue may be adequate.
- Please note that for natural science objects, a photo of the actual specimen or in the case of a collection, a representative sample must be included.
- Please note that the Expert Examiner may require further information, including more photographs, or ask to see the object(s), in order to accurately assess the significance of the object.

DESCRIPTION AND HISTORY OF OBJECT(S)

Please complete this page for each object you wish to export. You may photocopy the page or download it, or ask the Department for additional copies.

In the case of very large collections, such as stamps or recent archaeological or palaeontological finds, complete one page for the entire collection and attach a separate list identifying each particularly significant item and its value.

In describing what the object is, please give as complete a description as possible. For example:

- if the object is a work of art, give the name of the painting, the year of completion, the artist, and the types of material used in the paintings creation – eg. 'Churchyard at Shillingstone', 1884, Tom Roberts, oil on canvas.
- if the object is a machine such as a tractor, the description might read – '1910 Fowler 7hp, two speed, double crank, compound steam traction engine, works No. 12345'.

Description of the object:

What is it?
When did it come to Australia? (if applicable)
What size is it?	What age is it?
When and where was it made or found?
Who made or found it?
What is its current Australian market value in Australian dollars? $A
Give details of any publications in which it has been listed or photographed (if applicable):

History and provenance of the object:

Does it have any distinguishing marks or numbers? (For example, permanently fixed accession number, serial or consignment number, or engine number, indelible manufacturer's name, mark or model, engraved name, signature, visible damage and/or repair).

Can you provide details of the history and provenance of the object? (Having information about the history of the object(s) enables the Expert Examiners to speed their research and to provide an accurate assessment of the object's significance. Details of the provenance and who may have owned the object(s) before you or its association with a significant Australian person, place, activity, business or event, also helps.)

Can you provide other information? (Include if known, its rarity, importance, or extent to which similar objects are already represented in Australian public collections)

Photograph Requirements: Refer to 'Supporting Documentation' on page 1 under 'Important Notes for Applicants'.

For collections, one photographic print of the most rare or significant examples is sufficient. Large collections are likely to be inspected.

An expert examiner may ask you for more information later or ask to see the object(s) or collection.
